Retrieve Medical and Concord Medical Group Sign
Co-Marketing Agreement
Partnership to promote and deploy Retrieve Dx™ across
Concord's over 75 managed hospital programs

BASKING RIDGE, NJ, FEBRUARY 15, 2021 - - Retrieve Medical, Inc., the developer of Retrieve Dx™, a software platform providing proactive CDI feedback during the physician's evaluation of a hospital ED patient, today announced a co-marketing agreement with Concord Medical Group, the Texas-based premier healthcare provider of staffing and management services.

The agreement enables Concord to co-market, promote and deploy the Retrieve software to their base of mostly rural hospitals throughout the US.

Retrieve Dx is a software platform that provides proactive CDI feedback during the physician's evaluation of the patient in the Emergency Department and those admitted to the hospital. The software searches all available medical records relevant to the patient and presents it to the clinician, in seconds, for evaluation and potential inclusion in the patient's chart - creating a more complete and robust medical record.

"This agreement will provide a valuable tool for our hospital partners. Retrieve Dx allows our physicians to improve their documentation by reducing the time usually associated with accessing all of the patients' current and past medical records. The simple process gives our physicians more time to engage with patients while creating a more detailed medical record," states Jeffrey A. Schwartz, MD, FACEP, Concord Medical Group's Executive Vice President of Clinical Operations and Chief Clinical Officer. "Our healthcare and hospital expertise, coupled with Retrieve's user-friendly platform, brings immediate benefits to our hospital partners at a time when they need it most."

"We are excited to be partnering with the Concord Medical Group," states Mark Rosenberg, MD, Chairman of Retrieve Medical and who has spent 19-years as the Chair of Emergency Medicine at St Joseph's Health in Paterson and Wayne, New Jersey. "Concord brings a unique depth of experience having worked with these rural hospitals and the management support services they currently offer."

About Concord Medical Group
